Best school based project exploring environmental themes or issues

Environmental awareness amongst teachers and students continues to grow. This ongoing process is critical if the necessary behavioural, social and economic changes needed to protect the environment and achieve ecologically sustainable development are to be fully implemented in the future. The United Nations Association of Australia believes it is important to recognise this accomplishment in the educational arena and to encourage the further contribution of teachers and students in this field of endeavour.

The Award invites nominations from teachers and students at primary and secondary school levels, who are involved in projects which help foster understanding about environmental issues at a grass roots level and make a constructive contribution through positive ideas and activities aimed at addressing these issues.

Other Award Categories include: Sustainability Victoria Meeting the Greenhouse Challenge, Lincolne Scott Triple Bottom Line, Szencorp Green Building Award, Business Enterprise, Local Government, DSE Marine and Coastal Management, Water Management, Media, Community and Individual.
