

A conversation with Professor Stephen Heppell

Your chance to ask Stephen your burning questions about the role of ICT in learning.

School leaders, teachers and anyone who wants to find out how to use technology to boost the learning of their students will benefit from this opportunity. You will come away inspired, with a focused vision for your school and classrooms.

| | |
|---------------|---|
| Date: | Thursday 17 May |
| Time: | 9.30 am - 11.30 am |
| Venue: | Treasury Theatrette 1 MacArthur Street, East Melbourne |
| Cost: | No charge - limited places |
| RSVP | Monday 14 May. Email your name and school details to compton.leanne.l@edumail.vic.gov.au |

The Ultranet and Digital Learning Unit invite you to a session with Stephen Heppell, who is a leading voice on the role of ICT in learning. Stephen's experience includes a vast portfolio of effective large-scale projects over three decades; he has established himself internationally as a widely and fondly recognised leader in the fields of learning, new media and technology. Stephen has worked, and is working, with governments around the world, with international agencies, with schools and communities, with his PhD students and with many influential trusts and organisations. This session will be an opportunity for Stephen to share practices he has seen where technology is effectively used to improve the quality of teaching and learning practice across the world, and for you to ask Stephen your burning questions about the role of ICT in learning.

We recommend that you use public transport as parking in the area is limited.