Have fun with careers in IT

A career in IT could mean working in fashion, medical research, automotives, computer animation and games developments roles with Australia's leading companies – but the declining number of females studying IT at tertiary level indicates that too many girls just aren't aware of the opportunities a career in IT can bring.

Go Girl Go for IT aims to dispel the negative stereotypes and myths about IT, by showing girls how dynamic and fulfilling a career in IT can be.

Students will hear from and talk to talented young role models who are living their dream career in IT, and will be able to access a wealth of information that will assist them in making informed IT career decisions.

Go Girl 2006 will be held at Deakin University's thriving metropolitan campus at Burwood, located alongside Gardiner's Creek parklands in Melbourne's eastern suburbs.

This event is open to all Victorian Secondary schools.

REGISTER NOW: www.vicictforwomen.com.au.

Register before Friday 4 August to go into the draw to win a computer package for your school!
